

Bringing Stories to Life

Presented by Beth Cregan
Friday, 3 May 2013

In this interactive workshop, participants will unfold the oral storytelling tradition and explore the powerful role that storytelling can play in both supporting and enriching the lives of children, with particular reference to assisting children in care who have experienced trauma, abuse and family dysfunction.

Skill Bite Objectives:

- Understand how to use stories powerfully and creatively in both formal and informal settings
- Identify the key characteristics and the structure of narrative in stories such as character, orientation, complication, resolution and how this relates to the storytelling tradition
- Experience stories from a range of cultures and genres, and recognise both the commonalities and distinctions in styles and motifs of storytelling
- Understand the role of storytelling in assisting children in care who have experienced trauma, abuse and family dysfunction
- Develop a storytelling resource folio which includes the completion of a simple project to encourage storytelling with children
- Develop confidence as you take on the storyteller's role

Suitable Audience:

- Carers and workers from foster, permanent, residential, adoptive & kinship care
- Family service workers
- Child protection workers
- Teachers & teacher's aide
- Student welfare & wellbeing professionals

Ms. Beth Cregan's teaching experience spans over 25 years, from early childhood to secondary education in both the public and private sector. As the Director of Write Away With Me, Beth is dedicated to inspiring both children and adults to become aware of their unique power as creative writers and storytellers. She believes that stories not only light the fire of our imagination, they light a candle to our personal experiences and speak to our heart.
