

WHY TWO BRAINS AREN'T ALWAYS BETTER THAN ONE

Promoting Positive
Brain Change
from the Inside Out

CAIRNS | FRIDAY 28 NOVEMBER 2014

PRESENTER: Dr Dave Ziegler, Jasper Mountain (USA) with Gregory Nicolau

New and successful behaviours can come from within the individual producing positive emotions, behaviours and success in life. We are most effective in helping others when we positively impact their brain function. Our seminars will take the mystery out of this very complex process. We shall explore in easy to understand steps practices that can lead to internal brain change that lasts into the future.

The following objectives will be addressed:

- To define optimal mental health
- To understand the inner world of children and young people's perceptions and emotions that result in behaviours
- To recognise the importance of determining the emotional maturity of children and young people and how to do so
- To learn how to assess when a child or young person is switched on to hearing what it is you have to say
- To appreciate the impact that stress plays on the ability for a child or young person to make good choices
- The role of attachment in promoting healthy body, mind and spirit
- To identify signs that a child or young person is not coping and what to do
- The 5 steps to promote positive change from the inside out
